

LONDON VOCAL EXPLOSION!

Swingle Singers bring their brand of cool to new festival

For toe-tapping rhythms, scrunchy harmonies and astonishing vocal techniques (beatboxing anyone?), few can outdo the Swingle Singers. From 13-16 January, these dynamic vocalists are fronting an all-new a cappella (unaccompanied) festival at Kings Place, London. Other performing artists include the award-winning London Adventist Chorale and early music ensemble Stile Antico. There are also afternoon workshops for amateur singers of all ages, led by the Swingles and on-the-up vocal group VOCES8. For tickets, on sale now, visit kingsplace.co.uk
